

Christo van Zyl

Christo Van Zyl started his career in underground mining as a miner and ended as a business analyst in the projects team. He spent a number of years in the open cast mining industry, predominantly as a planning specialist. Since 2013, Christo has worked for BME as a blasting technician and is now employed as a blasting engineer with the company.