

Victor Krause

Victor Krause started working for a competitor in the mining industry in 1995 after finishing school. He joined BME in 1999 as a hose handler, after which he moved on to the position of truck operator, and then blasting foreman. From 2003 to 2010 he worked as an expatriate in Africa as a site, drill, and blast manager. He returned to South Africa in 2011 to start his journey as a blasting engineer, specialising in reactive ground and hot holes within BME International.